How to Secure and Hold the best trade is a perplexing problem to some people, but its solution is simple.

FIRST: Keep the best goods possible. Not once in a while, but all the time.

SECOND: Let the people know of it early and often.

THIRD: Keep awake. Buy your goods right; sell them right and deliver them promptly.

KILLING AT MIAMI.

The following dispatch to the Kansas City Journal of the 25th inst. tells of the killing of Keeney by Bill West as well as we could and we give it in full:

"A short time ago Bill West, of the Cherokee nation, shot a man at Miami, in the Ottawa reserve. A warrant was issued for him and placed in the hands of a blacksmith named Keeney, who was sworn in as a deputy United States marshal for this special case. Keeney arrested West last Wednesday at Miami and fastened his arms and legs with a trace chain, but in the night West escaped. His brother, Kinch, came to Miami Thursday and terrified the citizens by firing his revolver and making other demonstrations. Friday afternoon Bill West rode into town and shot Keeney, the deputy marshal, killing him instantly. West is a son of old Kinch West, well known in the territory as one of Quantrell's men, and who served a term in the penitentiary for robbing a man twenty years ago. He boasts of having killed fifty men during his lifetime, and his boys seem to be in a fair way to rival the old man. The family are feared by all citizens and the town of Miami is without protection of any kind. Nearly every week a gang of outlaws from the Cherokee nation comes in and commits depredations of some kind."

IT MUST BE STOPPED.

The young people east of Springfield have organized a literary society which meets at the Star school house every Friday evening. At the meeting last Friday evening some five or six young men came over from the vicinity of Shoal creek, evidently for the purpose of creating a disturbance and breaking up the society. They swaggered around after the society adjourned, swearing and using vulgar language in the presence of the girls and within the hearing of a respectable family living near the school house. Such conduct is a disgrace to the community in which such lawless creatures reside. It is in violation of the law and the penalty is very severe, as the following extract from the statute shows:

"Any person disturbing any kind of a meeting shall be fined not exceeding $10 and imprisoned not exceeding three months."

We publish this for the benefit of these young thoughtless roughs and their parents. These boys have already laid themselves liable to arrest and severe punishment, and if they persist they will most certainly have to pay the penalty.

How much better, more decent and manly in every way it would be for them to organize a literary society in their own neighborhood and spend their leisure hours there improving their minds and morals. By so doing they would save themselves much trouble.

Many young men have been led astray and gone from bad to worse until they finally rounded up in the penitentiary. Let us hope that the young men above referred to may not suffer a similar fate.

BOUND OVER.

The preliminary examination of Solomon Cornell, who crushed the skull of Frank Border with a rock at a dance in the Indian Territory ten miles southwest of this city two weeks ago last night, was held before United States Commissioner C. W. Daniels on Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning of this week. The United States was represented by Assistant United States District Attorney Mason and the defense by John Wiswell of Columbus and W. S. Norton and C. A. Markland of this city. A dozen or more witnesses were examined and their testimony was very positive, those for the prosecution claiming Cornell was to blame, while those for the defense were equally certain that Border was the aggressor. From the testimony adduced it is easy to infer that the witnesses on each side had a tacit understanding as to what they would swear to. Cornell was bound over to the May term of the United States district court which will convene in the city of Fort Scott, Kansas, in the sum of $250. He gave bond and was released.
